

Message from Sue Black Director of Human Resources Sodexo Australia & New Zealand

“At Sodexo, we care about our employees in the same way that we care about our clients. We strive to provide each and every employee with an exciting range of professional and personal opportunities to improve the quality of their daily life.

We invite our employees to develop their careers both locally and globally, across all of our service areas. Each person has the flexibility to align the pace of their career with their various life stages.

By living the Sodexo values and ethical principles, and actively fostering diversity and inclusion, our people make Sodexo a company of the future.

What does Sodexo expect from its employees?

Beyond knowledge and experience, we look for people who share our values ... and who prove it in their behaviour. Service Spirit, Progress and Team Spirit are the foundations of our business and we look to our employees in every role and every business unit to live these values in everything they do, every day.

We look for employees who model our values and who are passionate about delivering service with a smile, as part of a team, to our clients and customers. We care both about developing the company and opening up personal development opportunities for our people. This positive attitude is a condition both for success and personal progress, and is a non-negotiable attribute we seek in every new recruit.”
